

What You Need to Know About CANNABIS AND DRIVING

KNOW THE FACTS

Cannabis affects judgment and coordination. It also slows reaction time.

Cannabis and Driving

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, "Driving while impaired by any substance, including marijuana, is dangerous and illegal. Marijuana negatively affects several skills required for safe driving, such as reaction time, coordination, and concentration."

Cannabis, Driving and the Law

Cannabis is a drug, and it is against the law to drive under the influence of any drug. CVC 23152 (e).

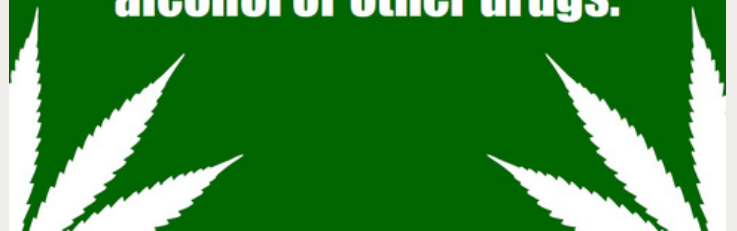

A 215 medical cannabis card is not a license to drive under the influence.

Driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol can result in arrest, loss of driver's license and costly fines.

REMEMBER :

Give your keys to a sober driver if you have used cannabis, alcohol or other drugs.

Talk to your Doctor

Cannabis is a drug that can have side effects. It can make prescribed medications work differently. It can make some health problems worse. Talk to your doctor about the potential risks of using cannabis.

There are many strains of cannabis. THC (delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol) is a chemical in cannabis that makes you feel “high.” The amount of THC in each strain is different.

Some strains are stronger than others. THC levels can be much higher than you expect. How cannabis affects a person depends on its potency and how they use it.
