This map shows the tsunami hazard zones in and around Samoa. Areas shaded yellow are at risk of flooding during a tsunami, including the town of Samoa, the peninsula shoreline, Fairhaven Beach, low-lying areas along Highway 255, Tuluwat and Woodley Island. Schools in the hazard zone include Peninsula Union School. Areas shaded green are outside the tsunami hazard zone and considered safe, including higher ground located in Samoa by the water tanks, an evacuation site above Peninsula Union School at the end of Fenwick Ave. and for Woodley Island, higher ground at the center of the island. If you are in a yellow hazard zone during a tsunami warning, move inland on foot toward the green safe areas.
